Claim Objections

Applicant is advised that should claim 16 be found allowable, claim 17 will be objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate thereof. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim. See MPEP § 706.03(k).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 15,18,19,20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Romano (5,002,546).

With respect to claim 15, Romano discloses a self-aligning device for boring into bone comprising a boring head; as best seen in Fig.16, having at least two boring tips (61) a body, as seen in FIG.2, a handle attached to the body, as seen in FIG.1, a hinge, as seen in FIG.16, coupling the boring head to the body at a location substantially equidistant from the boring tips; as seen in FIGS.16, 18.

With respect to claims 18,19, Romano discloses all the limitations as best seen in FIGS.1-20.

With respect to claims 20-22, the method steps, as set forth, would have been inherently carried out in the operation of the device, as set forth above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 16,17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Romano (5,002,546) in view of Takasugi et al. (4,268,251).

With respect to claims 16,17, it is noted that Romano did not teach of tips comprising boring needle; as claimed by applicant. However, in a similar art, Takasugi et al evidence the use of a needle for boring a hole in a dental root canal.

Therefore, given the teaching of Takasugi et al, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Romano, as taught by Takasugi et al for boring a hole in a bone.

Claims 10,11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bisgaard (5,387,221) in view of Takasugi et al. (4,268,251).

With respect to claims 10 and 11, Bisgaard disclose at least one curved needle (12); a base (3) holding the handle and configured for being placed against a bone, a handle (10) coupled to the base, the handle capable of receiving a force in a particular direction for associating the device with a region that is at least substantially adjacent bone; and a needle advancer (16), which advances the needle only when a force on the handle in a particular direction is higher than a predetermined amount, the predetermined amount assuring that the base is urged against the bone.

It is noted that Bisgaard did not teach of a bone boring needle, as claimed by applicant. However, in a similar art, Takasugi et al evidence the use of a needle for boring a hole in a dental root canal.

Therefore, given the teaching of Takasugi et al, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Bisgaard, as taught by Takasugi et al for boring a hole in a bone.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 23-27 are allowed.

Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments, see pages 5-8 of the remarks, filed 2/23/04, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 10, 11, 15-22 under 102(a) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Romano/Bisgaard.

Furthermore, during the interview on January 21, 2004, applicant was advised that three distinct inventions were being claimed in the application; and, applicant was given the option to choose one of the inventions for prosecution. Applicant is advised that before this application is passed to issue a restriction may be forth coming, if applicant did not select one of the inventions for prosecution.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
